Publicity For Canada

FOR SOME TIME in has been felt by many Canadians that too little is known about Canada in other lands. This has been notable, especially in England and the United States, where the Canadian visitor has on occasion encountered what is to him an amazing and appalling lack of knowledge about our country. In the past we have met this situation with tolerance and some amusement, but there has always been, too, the suggestion of our national pride. It has been realized, however, that this lack of knowledge about Canada by many who live beyond her borders, is not due to lack of interest on their part, but to our failure to publicize our country.

Need Wider Information

In recent months this question has been considered more seriously than at any time, because of a misapprehension that has sprung up in the United States regarding Canada's war effort. Many American news writers who are appraised of both sides of the situation have been urging Canadians to increase their organization for publicity in the States. Many Canadian newspapers have likewise been stressing the need for a wider service for information before the border. To deal with the problem the Dominion government recently appointed Mr. Charles Vining, a Montreal newspaper man, to make a survey of Canadian publicity in the United States and to report to the government on his findings. Doubtless this will result in an expansion of our news services in the United States, and in the promotion of a better understanding there of what Canada is doing in the present world struggle.

We Should Be Realists

Canada is still a young nation. We have a magnificent country, rich in natural resources and scenic beauties. Many of our resources are developed and are the sources of large and modern industrial enterprises. Our agriculture is on a scale sufficient to supply our own needs and those of many other parts of the world. At present both our industry and agriculture are playing an enormous part in sustaining England in these critical times. Because we are still a young nation we have not yet found a strong means of national expression. We have few national newspapers or magazines with a large international circulation. In the years following the war there will be great problems to be settled and Canada will be represented at the council tables with the other United Nations. It is strongly felt by many thoughtful Canadians that before that time we must not only fully realize our importance as a nation, but spread that knowledge through the nations at whose sides we are fighting.

Commando Raids

Vice-Admiral Lord Mountbatten Discovers Some Inside History

How Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, commander of the German army, escaped a commando raid but lost his entire general staff was told by the dark-haired commander of the fabulous commandos, Vice-Admiral Lord Mountbatten.

It happened the night before the British offensive in the last Libyan campaign. A commando party worked its way over the desert, behind the German lines, until it came to Rommel's base.

The place was captured easily and everyone inside killed or captured but Rommel was not there—he was in Rome attending a birthday celebration.

Lord Louis told how two young British commando officers calmly stood on the forecastle head of the explosive-laden destroyer Campbelltown in St. Nazaire harbor, heavily assuring 50 to 100 German technical experts that all was well until the ship blew up and carried everyone to death. The raid on St. Nazaire was made March 28.

"Those two boys stayed there and never batted an eye," said their commander. "They had guts."

The youthful commander of the commandos—he is only 42 but he has seen much naval service in this war and the last one—stressed the teamwork of his combined force of sailors, soldiers, airmen and marines. It is becoming a regular Allied force because American officers now are attached to his staff and four commandos are coming to the United States for instructional purposes.

Wear Caps Now

Bank Messengers in Britain Have Discarded Tall Silk Hat

The tall silk hat, traditional headgear of Britain's bank messengers, is the latest victim of war conditions. An announcement said the topper is being exchanged for "a pith helmet, but more serviceable cap." "Bank messengers carry steel helmets, and if these should be used to use them it would be rather difficult to pack a topper away," an official of Lloyd's Bank explained. "Then there's the matter of economizing in the use of materials."

Paper Salvage

Much Time Is Lost Through Improper Methods Of Preparation

Headache and loss of time for salvage collectors are caused by improper preparation of newspapers and magazines by householders. Newspapers should be kept clean and flat and tied in firm bundles of about 50 pounds each. Magazines and books should be tied in bundles of about 75 pounds each. Use strong twine and tie both lengthwise and across. Corrugated boxes should be flattened out and tied in firm bundles of about 50 pounds. Waste paper such as envelopes, writing paper, crumpled papers of all kinds and ordinary cardboard boxes should be packed in old bags or in large corrugated boxes. Do not include cellophane, wax paper, glassine, carbon paper or tar paper. These have no value and take time for sorters to remove.

Glad Of His Support

Uniform Of Lad In U.S. Army Impressed His Grandmother

The Minneapolis Star-Journal quotes the story of a contemporary about the lad who has just won his commission in the army. He is of impressive height and breadth, even in civilian clothes. The other day in his new uniform, he went over to see his grandmother. His belt was polished, his shoulder insignia bright, his service ribbons gay, his regimental markings vivid, his buttons shiny. His grandmother looked him up and down in awed silence for a moment, then remarked, "My goodness, Charlie I'm glad you are on our side!"

PRIORITY FOR WORKERS

Hats off to Leeds for starting schemes for badges for war workers to give them priority on buses, trams, and from work, so that they are not crowded out by shoppers, pleasure-seekers. It was felt that working women especially needed this consideration.

AN ODD GREENHOUSE

Not Sport Material

Factory Made Cricket Bats But Now Makes Rifle Stocks

A North of England factory which used to make cricket bats has now turned over to producing butts and stocks for Tommy guns and rifles, says the St. Thomas Times-Journal. It occurred to its manager when war broke out that his machines could be adapted for making the wooden "furniture" of guns. The suggestion was pooh-poohed at first; but he won the day and got his contract.

Today the machines which three years ago were turning out cricket bats are shaping four slabs of wood into four rifle butts in as many minutes. Other machines complete the 92 processes which are necessary before the butts and stocks go into the ammonia chamber to mellow. They are then treated with linseed oil. The craftsmen who made the cricket bats maintain that today, out of a pile of other rifles, a seasoned war veteran will still choose their work for its "feel."

Ownership Transferred

Britain Has Given Island Of Patos To Venezuela

Patos (Spanish for Ducks) Island, a 170-acre dot in the Caribbean, three miles off Venezuela, used to be one of the tiniest bits of the British Empire. The Foreign Office kept a retired Negro policeman from nearby Trinidad there as caretaker. All he had to do was run up the Union Jack daily. His family and his goats were the sole inhabitants. There weren't even ducks.

Britain originally claimed the islet under the 1802 Treaty of Amiens which gave it Trinidad. But since 1904 Venezuela has disputed its ownership, and the squabble threatened the otherwise friendly relations between the nations.

On May 21 Britain did the noble thing. King George signed a bill ceding Patos to Venezuela free of charge.—Newsweek.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

CHRISTIANITY

A wise man will always be a Christian, because the perfection of wisdom is to know where lies tranquility of mind, and how to attain it, which Christianity teaches.—Lander.

He who shall introduce into public affairs the principles of primitive Christianity will change the face of the world.—Benjamin Franklin.

Christianity reveals God as ever-present Truth and Love, to be utilized in healing the sick, in casting out error, in raising the dead.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Christianity is not a theory or speculation, but a life; not a philosophy of life, but a life and a living process.—Coleridge.

After reading the doctrines of Plato, Socrates, or Aristotle, we feel that the specific difference between their words and Christ's is the difference between an inquiry and a revelation.—Joseph Parker.

Christianity is the campaign of liberty in all its conflicts—the cradle of its infancy, and the divine source of its claims.—De Tocqueville.

The Individual Citizen's Army

A Weekly Column About This And That In The Canadian Army.
By Alan Maurice Irwin

Well, we got it at last! A touch of total war in our own front yard! Freighters torpedoed in the St. Lawrence! I know the news is stale, but since I know that broad estuary as well as most of us know Main Street or Broadway you might be interested in a few remarks on the subject.

Naturally, since the question of security enters into it, I shall not attempt to speculate as to where the attacks took place although, judging by the hour at which the attacks were made and the reported time of the landings of survivors at various little ports it is not too hard for an ex-sophomore reporter to figure out within fifty miles or so.

What is most important, now that the sneaking underwater hounds have at last gathered their courage to the point of risking their lives in confined waters, is the steps to be taken by members of the Individual Citizen's Army.

There is no need to worry about the steps that are being taken by the Canadian Navy—it was immediately announced that long-prepared plans were at once put into effect.

Remember a few days after the little yellow apes attacked Pearl Harbor? They shelled the California coast. That was done from a submarine.

It can happen here! Not beyond the bounds of possibility are handings at obscure spots in the dead of night for water and food or diesel oil.

That is why a recruiting campaign is going on for the Reserve Army. Married men in the acceptable age group and married and single men whose categories unfit them for overseas service are needed to form a "Home Guard." There may be work for a home guard much sooner than we complacently anticipate.

There are long miles of shore-line on both sides of the estuary in which scattered farm houses are the only signs of habitation. But the men and women who live in these picturesque white houses are of a sturdy stock that stems back to the hardy Frenchmen who wrested Canada from the defenses of nature and who ably defended their territory against savages who would be appalled at the savagery displayed today by the "cultured" Nazis.

Even if there are submarines in the St. Lawrence we cannot all play the role of Madeleine de Vercheres, we cannot all join the Reserve Army, but we can all play our parts by doing everything possible in our daily lives to conserve every resource for wartime production.

From the little port that harbours the pilot tender to its mouth the mighty St. Lawrence River takes on the proportions of an inland sea. Heavily wooded country abounding with wild life backs the settled fringe along the shores. It is tempting country to brutalized men who have been cooped up for weeks in the wild atmosphere of a submarine.

Wild life, moose, deer, smaller game, are very tempting to men who have been living on German naval rations. They may be tempted to try a little hunting. And it may be too bad for them. Have you ever faced a conscientious Game Warden?

The farmers of the lower St. Lawrence are an amphibious people equally at home between the handles of a plough or a pair of oars, in a gasoline tractor or a fishing launch capable of riding the heavy seas for which the great river is noted. They will give a good account of themselves if they get the chance.

They are used to making a living the hard way in a year round contest with the elements and will be just as equal to protecting that living when the occasion arises.

But they won't be able to do it alone! They will need, and must have, every other Canadian standing behind them. They will need the Royal Canadian Navy—which so many of their sons have joined. And that Navy needs heavy clothes, warm food, rubber boots, depth charges, ammunition.

You've guessed it! That's where the Individual Citizen's Army enters the picture again.

To give the Navy its woollen sweaters, its heavy socks to wear under sea-boots, its hot cocoa-sweetened for energy—its depth charges, we have to do without a great many things.

Metal kegs are banned—depth charges are metal kegs; sugar is rationed—sugar makes alcohol, alcohol makes explosives; rubber is restricted—rubber makes sea-bots; we carry parcels to save wrapping paper—wrapping paper helps make shells; and we shouldn't need to be ordered. We should cheerfully volunteer to make even more savings than are planned for us.

Because someone misunderstood regulations aimed at a R.A.F. Station in Britain had their hair cut at the expense of the government it was revealed when the equivalent of $500 for barbers' fees was included in Auditor General's report.

QUITE POSSIBLE

Secretary of State Elihu Root and his fellow cabinet members were discussing a very wealthy man whose brusque manner had made him universally disliked.

"Well, one thing I will say about him," said one cabinet member. "He never bothers anyone to get positions for his friends."

"That certainly is in his favor," admitted Root, "unless—"

"Unless what?"

"Unless he has no friends."

CHAPTER XXVI

Ransome thought he would never reach the junction on the highway where the Duck Point Rd. joined it. It was almost noon and the sun shone warmly down upon them.

The Duck Point Rd. was seldom travelled excepting for the tenants of a number of small farms that lay scattered about. It was surprising that any one could have landed a plane there and it had not been noticed, Ransome thought.

He found the mail box marked with the name of the man who had called him, and turned the car in the narrow road winding between moss-laden trees. Bird dogs and geese made great confusion as he stopped at the little front porch of the house. A tall, lanky man got up slowly from the stone steps.

"Reckon you're the one I talked to about the plane?"

"Yes," said Ransome, opening the car door. "This is Mr. Randolph, the girl's father, and Mr. Sheridan, a lawyer friend, Mr. Ransome."

The stranger looked them over silently and then said, "Howdy." He turned back to Ransome.

"Can you take us to the field right now?"

"I'll get in with you, and we can drive up to it," "Jes" down the road a piece."

The field where they stopped had been planted in broom corn, and had been recently cut, and most of the soil turned under again. In one far corner they found marsh grass growing, and it seemed to be here the plane had been kept.

The brown grass was crushed down in a great sweeping path, and the men knew that it had happened when the plane used it as a runway.

"Whoever landed that plane must have known something about the place. There must have been a car waiting, and they must have tested this marsh grass to make sure that it wasn't too wet!"

Dick Sheridan nodded. "You're right about that. No one could have just taken a chance on a thing like this unless it was a forced landing."

"The plane must have circled here, to take off into the wind," Ransome indicated a wide sweeping place in the crushed grass. Had Tamar been in that plane when it took off? Had the plane been left there to carry away the gold bars taken from the armored truck?

If there could only be some evidence! He looked hopefully about the place where he thought the plane must have stood. Car tracks were plainly visible. He exclaimed at the number. "Look! There's been more than one car here! The tire tracks were of a different design in the soft dirt."

"We had a light rain night before last," said Ransome. "Jes" 'nough to lay the dust. So they must be new tracks."

Dick then open his arms in a hopeless gesture. "Chances are we're on a dead-end trail. This probably doesn't mean a thing."

"Well, I was flabbergasted to hear a plane out here in my own field," said Ransome. "It jes' ain't natural. No one else ever landed out here. I walked over, but there's nothing I could do."

"No sign of a car?"

"No. I thought I heard one go by jes' fore I turned off our lane to go into the field, but I was walkin' and the bushes grow so high I couldn't see."

"Let's get to a telephone. I want to call Taylor and see if he can check your arms over your head. Take your choice, Dud, the gold for us or hell for you. I thought they were bluffing, and picked up my gun."

The man whitened. "I don't want you to think I was weak, but have you ever thought that you were going to be blown into little bits?"

"No, it must be most uncomfortable," Ransome said soothingly.

"I watched my second hand on my wrist watch. I never saw anything go around so fast. Well—I opened the door and crawled out just as they made ready to light the bomb!"

"And then?"

"Some one struck me and I went out like a light. When I came to, I was by myself sitting in the dark propped up on a boulder. It was cold and I could hear water dripping. It wasn't long until I could see the sky was lightning, and pretty soon I could see that I wasn't far from a valley. I hit the filling station soon after and got a ride into Tablahneka."

"Can you find the place again?"

"Yes, easily. I marked it with stones. And—"

Ranny? "No, suh, Mist' Ranny. Dey ain't none come. Dat BIF man done call."

"Taylor?"

"Yassuh. He say 'yo' get in tech instantaneous." She plucked the telephone out of its cradle and handed it to him.

Taylor told Ranny that the armored truck driver stumbled into a filling station at daybreak, about 25 miles out of Tablahneka.

"I'll be in your office right away. I want to see him."

Once more Ransome stepped into the car and started it.

"Wait, Ransome," said Knox, "I'll sit here by the telephone. Something might come in and maybe they wouldn't let any one take the message but me."

Ransome saw the trembling of his lips and knew that Tamar's father was a broken old man, today.

The truck driver was of middle age. He looked pale and as though he had spent a sleepless night. His bloodshot eyes looked steadily into Ranny's as he told his story.

"I was detained at the mine. Purposely, of course, I see now. But at the time I thought natch'ing of it, excepting that it would make me late getting back. When I reached the foot of the hill leading to the junction, I was going pretty fast. Without warning, the wheels dropped off into the ditch that had been dug and covered over. Like an elephant trap, I knew immediately what had happened, so I just sat there, waiting for their first move."

Ransome asked impatiently, "And what was it?"

"A voice called to me. 'There's a bomb under you that will go off in exactly three minutes! Get out with your arms over your head. Take your choice, Dud, the gold for us or hell for you.' I thought they were bluffing, and picked up my gun."

The man whitened. "I don't want you to think I was weak, but have you ever thought that you were going to be blown into little bits?"

"No, it must be most uncomfortable," Ransome said soothingly.

"I watched my second hand on my wrist watch. I never saw anything go around so fast. Well—I opened the door and crawled out just as they made ready to light the bomb!"

"And then?"

"Some one struck me and I went out like a light. When I came to, I was by myself sitting in the dark propped up on a boulder. It was cold and I could hear water dripping. "Yes, easily. I marked it with stones. And—"

The sharp ring of the telephone interrupted. Taylor answered it. "It's Knox Randolph, he says to come at once. He's had a message."

Heroism Of Sailors

CBC Correspondent Tells About Sinking Of British Battleships

For the three days following his rescue from the Repulse sinking, CBC correspondent Cecil Brown was so busy writing and broadcasting that he did not have time to shave or to wash off the oil in which he had been immersed for hours. "But throughout that time," he says in his story of the Prince of Wales and Repulse disaster in Liberty magazine, "through the sickness from the oil, the pounding in my ears, and the burning in my eyes, one constant thought kept a choke in my throat. It was the vivid, saddening, proud memory of heroism, determination, stamina, and the way brave men die that more than fulfilled Nelson's great words to his men of the British Navy: 'England expects every man to do his duty.'"

Admiral Tom Phillips arrived in Singapore just in time to take the Prince of Wales and Repulse out on their first and last engagement in the Far East. Captain Leach commanded the Wales and, writes Brown, "Phillips and Leach were last seen standing on the bridge of the Wales, the water rising up to meet them, meeting, and then covering them."

Feeding Raw Garbage To Pigs Infects Pork With Disease

Canada has a regulation which insists that pigs must not be fed raw garbage. There is no such regulation in the United States. The latter country has about 17 per cent. of its population infected with trichinosis, a disease which results from the eating of pork containing live worms. Canada's population has only one per cent. suffering from the disease. These were facts adduced in a joint paper by Dr. T. W. McCarren and Dr. M. J. Miller delivered before the medical section of the Royal Society of Canada at Toronto.

An Imposing Total

Cleaning Windows On One Manchester House Is Some Job

The abode of a neighbor of mine, writes a Manchester Guardian correspondent, has 26 downstairs windows and 22 upstairs ones. They average 22 small diamond or square panes each. That makes—as he bitterly points out—the neatly consecutive total of 3,456 panes to be cleaned. Each pane has four corners. That makes 13,824 nice little corners to be desmudged periodically. But, alas! a window has two sides. So, outside and in, that quite Old World-looking house has nearly 28,000 pane-corners to be tackled.

A chairman, as defined by one writer, is a man who spends 21 minutes and 16 seconds introducing a speaker "who needs no introduction."

Save Old Rags

They Are Desperately Needed For War Purposes

Every woman in every home has a hundred opportunities daily to be a vital cog in the war machine. For instance, the Director of Salvage at Ottawa points to rags. They're desperately needed for war—wrapping delicately milled parts for airplane wipers on airmen; in army workshops, and aboard Canadian ships. Homes are the greatest source of supply.

In appealing for rags, as for other materials, the Salvage Director says, "Do the job carefully and thoroughly so the material can be moved to the 'front line' fast."

Save white woollens, colored woollens; coatings and suitings; and cottons. Wrap each class in separate parcels, and, please, don't put clean and soiled rags together. Put old carpets and scrap sack in separate containers.

Pack in cartons or old sacks and get them to your local salvage organization, or direct to a dealer in your community right away.

The CBC's Overseas Unit is made up of a small group of men from the Programme and Engineering Division of the Corporation who play an important part in keeping the thousands of men and women serving in Britain in close association with their families and friends in Canada.

From many points in England this mobile unit arranges, records and presents for listeners in Canada broadcasts describing the life and activities of the soldiers, sailors, airmen, nursing sisters and civilian workers. Of their many duties perhaps one of prime concern is the arrangement to Canadians at home is the importance of the weekly Troop Broadcasts of personal greetings when men and women step up to the microphone somewhere in England to send their own messages home to Canada. These messages reach Canada in the form of recorded discs or are received direct from Overseas by the CBC's Ottawa shortwave receiving station and then recorded. In the case of messages recorded in England, the name of the men and women who have taken part in the programme are wirelessly to Ottawa and are subsequently checked against the recording when it arrives. In the latter case the record is played over and the names of those who have taken part in the broadcast are listed. It is then that the names of the participants are released to the Canadian Press to appear in the newspapers several days before the broadcast is to take place. For the benefit of rural listeners who may not have the opportunity of seeing the published list the names of the speakers are broadcast, as soon as possible after they are received, immediately following the News Analysis at 6:30 p.m. C.D.T. (5:30 p.m. M.D.T.), over Station CBK, Watrous (540 Kc.).

It will be understood why there is sometimes an unavoidable delay of several weeks between the time the broadcast or recording is made in Britain and when it is heard on the Canadian networks.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

With hot weather on the way, it's handy to have a recipe for home-made rolls that can be mixed up and stored in the refrigerator until needed. Happily, these bran beauties take but 15 minutes baking. The recipe goes like this:

All-Bran Refrigerator Rolls

1 cup shortening

3/4 cup sugar

1 cup All-Bran

15 teaspoons salt

1 cup boiling water

2 eggs

2 cakes compressed yeast

1 cup lukewarm water

6 1/2 cups flour, or more

Put shortening, sugar, All-bran and salt in large mixing bowl, add boiling water, stirring until shortening is melted. Let stand until mixture is lukewarm. Add well-beaten eggs and yeast, stir thoroughly. Add flour, add one-half the flour and beat until batter is smooth. Add remaining flour and beat well. Cover bowl closely and place in refrigerator over night or until ready to use. Form balls of dough to fill greased muffin pans about half full. Let rise in a warm place about two hours or until double in bulk. Bake in moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 15 minutes.

Yield: 3 1/2 dozen rolls (2 1/2 inches in diameter).

"NERVES" CAN BE CHANGED INTO ASSETS

Energy Needs Proper Direction

Squabbles in public—no wonder John and Mary can't keep friends. They get on each other's nerves and "blow up" at the most inopportune times. Yet they could be happy together, a charming pair—if they would learn to use their nervous energies constructively.

Instead, Mary frots over every trifling—John overbids his hand, the laundry's late. The least thing upsets her emotionally.

What Mary needs is an absorbing interest in her life. If she'd take over the leadership of the girls' club in her neighborhood she'd soon forget petty annoyances—become cheerful, vital, a pleasant companion.

"Speed-up" is John's middle name. It's rush to work, rush through lunch—no wonder he fumes and fuses, blowing up at the least provocation. Learn to let down a little, John. Get enough sleep. Take time to enjoy your meals.

You'll do a better job, be a better "pal" if you and Mary would get out in the air, play games and take walks!

In our 32-page booklet a famous physician tells ways to control "nerves" to achieve serenity and vitality. Explains psychological causes of "nerves," also how to diet and exercise to gain radiant health.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "Overcoming Nerves and Every Day Health Problems" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper, 175 McDermott Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

SEEDTIME and HARVEST
Dr. K. W. Neatby
Director, Agricultural Department
North-West Line Elevators Association

Our laboratory has made duplicate germination tests and sent out reports on 5075 seed samples of cereals and flax during the past winter. This shows clearly that services we offer are in demand among farmers and are appreciated by them. Grain buyers are pleased to be in a position to assist their patrons in this way.

An equally, if not more, important matter follows.
Why have we in the prairie provinces fallen so far short of our flax acreage goal? Of course, there are several reasons. Some land is unsuitable, grasshoppers are a threat in some districts and it is not a particularly nice crop to handle. However, one of the chief reasons for fighting shy of flax is the prevalence of weeds.

Every farmer should know the names and habits of all weeds on or near his land. Perhaps this sounds like fine advice which is worth only a cent. Not so; it is a plain statement of fact. Any farmer who would recognize all important weeds before he sheltering some very dangerous ones without knowing it.

In order to have weeds accurately identified without cost, it is only necessary to deliver specimens (complete with roots and flowers—if possible) to any grain buyer of line for companies associated with this department. Grain buyers will forward them to our office, and we will report promptly.

I feel inclined to apologize for dealing with a subject so unhappy, but the weed problem gets worse year by year, and we are ready and willing to help.

Our 72-page bulletin "An Illustrated Guide to Prairie Weeds" is available to farmers free. Count your local grain buyer or write to us for a copy.

Flax and Coarse Grains Production Needed as a War Measure

Farmers are urged by the Government to produce as much coarse grains and flaxseed as possible.

Coarse grains are required for the production of livestock and dairy products, and flaxseed is urgently needed for its oil content.

THE ALBERTA PACIFIC GRAIN COMPANY, LIMITED (35)

We trust the same tragic-comic experience will not befall other visitors to Chinook as happened to the son of one of the old settlers who moved north a few years ago.

This newly-wed young man was bringing his bride to visit the old homestead and home town in the drought area. The young lady seeing clouds to the south expressed fears of their running into rain, but was assured by her husband that it never rained in the drought area.

About 12 miles north of Chinook their car broke down and walking was the only means of locomotion, in this man-forsaken region—Then the rain came down as it can come down in the drought area. Dainty shoes soon proved impossible in the slimy mud and, after a nine-mile walk, the crestfallen youth led his blushing barefoot bride into a friendly farm house, both wet to the skin.

Since then the young lady wonders just what people mean when they call this the drought area.

Chinook district has had another big steady rain storm which lasted two days.

Protest Order
To Drill Leases

More than 1,000 signatures have already obtained to a petition protesting a regulation by the provincial department of lands and mines that holders of oil leases in the province must start drilling operations by September 1.

H. W. Roberts, Secretary of Lease and Royalty Association which is circulating the petition said the government had implied that if drilling operations were not underway by September 1st leases would be cancelled.

It was impossible to carry out the government regulation, Mr. Roberts said, because, even if the money for drilling could be obtained, drilling equipment was not available.

Enforcement of the regulation, according to Mr. Roberts, would be to play into the hands of the big companies by squeezing small oil lease land holders out of the picture.

The petition, when completed, will be presented in person to Premier William Abernethy.
